Spring Program: Understanding, Motivating, and Successfully Working with the Millennial Generation

The Indiana Chapter of the American Society for Information Science & Technology invites you to join us as we connect with colleagues, share immigrant southern Italian cooking served family-style, and learn how to work with people of different ages!

Thursday, May 12, 2005

5:30 P.M. – 8:30 P.M.

Buca di Beppo, downtown Indianapolis

PROGRAM:

For the youngest members of the workforce (people born starting in 1980), the Energizer bunny has always been going, and going, and going and politicians have always used rock music for theme songs. The millennial generation is hitting the workplace with experiences and expectations different than those of earlier generations. During this session, participants will discuss generational differences, what motivates millennials, and tips for effectively working with the next generation.

SPEAKERS:

Megan Palmer, Ph.D., is an Instructional Design Specialist in the IUPUI Center for Teaching and Learning

Terri A. Tarr, Ph.D., is Director, Instructional Design and Development in the IUPUI Center for Teaching and Learning

COST:

$15 for ASIS&T Student Members  $25 for ASIS&T Members
$25 for Non-Member Students  $35 for Non-Members
